Engelking Appointed Official E-Switch and Lamb Industries Distributor for Germany

Following the recent acquisition of Lamb Industries USA, Engelking Elektronik GmbH, the rapidly expanding distributor and manufacturer of switching, connectivity products and power supplies, has been appointed official distributor for all products of Lamb Industries and E-Switch.

Engelking's competence particularly in serving OEM Equipment manufacturers has established the company in a good position with its in-house engineering to provide local support to customers.

E-Switch and Lamb's product range has become extremely comprehensive due to the merging of the two high quality product ranges and Engelking is in the process of supplying detailed technical information in German via its dedicated E-Switch website, www.eswitch.engelking.de. The product range covers everything from tact and dip switches through to panel mounted rocker, toggle and illuminated pushbuttons.

Combined with the switch products from Bulgin and ITW as well as its own innovative switch products (including the newly introduced nano-kinetic switches), Engelking is now able to offer everything from switch components at board level up to custom designer switches in virtually any technology to suit the application.
