Empolis and Attensity are among "KMWorld's 100 Companies That Matter in Knowledge Management"

Kaiserslautern, Germany, February 25, 2010 – For the fourth time, Empolis, an Attensity group company and leading provider in business user applications that generate value from unstructured data has been recognized as one of the world's most important companies in the field of knowledge management. It has once again been included in the prestigious list of "KMWorld's 100 Companies That Matter in Knowledge Management." Also named to the list was Attensity Corp., which, like Empolis, is part of Attensity Group.

The annual list appears in the March issue of KMWorld magazine, America's leading publication on knowledge management, and is compiled based on discussions with users, experts, analysts and providers, as well as their customers and employees. The companies on this list are recognized as trailblazers in the field of knowledge management.

Empolis offers an integrated suite of business applications that use semantic information technologies to analyze, interpret and automatically process an exponentially expanding volume of unstructured data. This allows companies to activate their knowledge capital and optimize their business applications, and ensures that decision makers, experts, support staff and customers always receive precisely the information that is relevant to their work and suits the needs of the given situation and task.

"The fact that we have once again been included in the KMWorld list demonstrates that Empolis is a global leader in the fields of knowledge management and semantic technologies. KMWorld's recognition of Atten-sity Corp. as well underscores the competence of Attensity Group as a whole. Under the motto 'Open Enterprise,' we intend to continue on our chosen path towards enabling organizations to leverage unstructured data in key business processes" said Dr. Stefan Wess, managing director of Empolis GmbH, the go-to-market entity of the Attensity group in the EMEA region.
